Dispatches from London

LONDON August 14—Advices from Metz state that the French army has withdrawn to the west bank of the Moselle. McMahon is at ... miles west of Nancy. The Prussian cavalry destroyed a portion of the railroad between Frouard and Paris, cutting off the supplies and forage for the French troops sheltered under the glacis of Metz. Napoleon's retreat from Metz is fully confirmed.

From Cuxhaven it is stated that the French ironclads and ... are in the ... The French Admiral Willaume ... Kiel.

Seven thousand volunteers left Paris to-day for the army.

LONDON Aug 14—A Herald special from Hagenau to-day says McMahon evacuated Nancy yesterday on the approach of the Crown Prince's army and retreated across the Moselle to the fortress of Toul. The French destroyed the fine bridge of seven arches which spanned the river. The forces of the Crown Prince now occupy Nancy and Frouard at the junction of the Paris and Strasbourg Railroad. The Prussians attacked Pont a Mousson and drove out the French but subsequently fell back to the main body. Head quarters of the united armies of Prince Frederick Charles and Gen Steinmetz are at Herry on a direct line with Saarbrucken and within 20 miles of Metz. Large quantities of stores were captured in the environs of Metz. General ... division has lost all its supplies. A special from Carlsruhe to-day says Strasbourg was bombarded with redhot shot on Friday and Saturday. The besieged asked a parley and were allowed 48 hours to surrender.

PARIS Aug 14—The Prefect of Nancy states that after all the French soldiers had left the city the Prussians took possession on Friday evening at 4 o'clock when the Mayor was ordered to present himself before the commander of the Prussian forces. The town was made to pay 50 000 francs. The Prussians have torn up the railroads and cut the telegraph.

A dispatch from Metz of the 13th says the Prussian pickets yesterday appeared in the valley of the Moselle and a detachment for a short time held Pont a Mousson. A brigade of French cavalry drove them away and made 30 prisoners.

The Parisians are much calmer since the change in the Ministry.

General Details

BERLIN August 14—King William had his headquarters at Faulquemont yesterday half way between Metz and Saarbrucken on the railroad.

LONDON August 14—The Tribune's special correspondent at Luxembourg writes August 14: Intelligence is just received here of three Prussian armies concentrating rapidly in the neighborhood of Nancy. The King's army is said to be at Pont a Mousson and Steinmetz is at Frouard which is only a few miles from Nancy while the Crown Prince is advancing from Strasbourg on Metz. If this be true he must have passed to the right. Our correspondent telegraphs from Luxemburg on Sunday that the Crown Prince entered Lunneville which place had been evacuated by the French. The Emperor has left Metz for Chalons.

A great battle is expected to-morrow between Nancy and Chalons. The roads between Ourboulack and Metz are closed. Nothing goes from here beyond the frontier at Thionville.

The British Consul at Hamburg telegraphs that the mouths of the rivers Elbe Oder Jahde and Weser are blockaded by the French fleet.

A special dispatch from Dublin says that on Sunday a mob six hundred strong headed by a band playing French airs attacked a Prussian vessel lying at Kingston and threw stones at her but failed in trying to board the vessel and left threatening to return next night and cut the throats of the Prussians. Police now guard the vessel. Bands of people are parading the streets this evening with French flags. They were stopped by the police. A riot is threatened.

SAN FRANCISCO August 15—A second pitched battle is reported to have occurred near Metz this morning. The Prussians claim a victory. Telegraphing has been prohibited throughout France.

Decision in the U S District Court

U S District Court for the District of Oregon Monday August 15 1870. Albert ... vs Andrew Hill as assignee of Thomas Martin a voluntary bankrupt. Agreed case upon a claim ... recover money.

On July 12 1870 the parties to the above entitled cause filed a statement of facts upon which the controversy between them depends and submitted the same to the determination of the court without action ...

On August 8 the case was argued by counsel for plaintiff and submitted without argument for defendant.

From the statement it appears that on April 4 ... Croft commenced an action against Thomas Martin aforesaid in the County Court for Multnomah county ... the same day an attachment issued ... and was ... levied ... the plaintiff then sheriff of ... county aforesaid and levied among other things upon 143 head of sheep ... pounds of meat ... plaintiff ... the meat ... $71 ... and put the sheep into the custody of a keeper where they remained 26 days when they were delivered to the defendant as assignee as aforesaid.

On April 5 said Martin filed his petition in this court to be adjudged a bankrupt and on April 8 was so adjudged by the Register. On April 15 Croft obtained judgment in the county court for $105 and on April 16 execution issued thereon against the property of Martin directed to plaintiff. On April 28 plaintiff was restrained by injunction from the court from selling Martin's property on execution and thereupon plaintiff ... said property to defendant as aforesaid and returned the execution unsatisfied.

That the plaintiff paid said keeper for keeping said sheep during the period aforesaid the sum of $2 per day or $ ... in all which was a reasonable reward for his services and that said plaintiff has not recovered payment for said sum so expended or any part thereof except said sum of $24 44 which he still retains.

The adjudication in bankruptcy related back to the filing of the petition on April 5 and dissolved the attachment from that day. An officer must look to the party or his attorney who employs him for his fees. He has no claim upon the adverse party for them. Croft obtained nothing by his judgment in the county court and he must pay the fees earned by the officers at his instance without having any recourse upon Martin or his property. Upon Martin's being adjudged a bankrupt the Register should have taken his property into his custody by the intervention of an agent and other proper means and kept it for the assignee when appointed. However at that time there appears to have been some doubt as to his power to do this and it was not done. The consequence was the sheep remained in the plaintiff's custody and he incurred this expense in keeping them.

I think upon general principles that the plaintiff is entitled to a reasonable reward for keeping these sheep. For this purpose he may be considered as a bailee and entitled to compensation as any other agister or feeder of cattle. The cases of Re Hoofseberger et al 2 Bank Reg 33 and I Williams ... sustain this conclusion while the first case goes even farther and probably too far. I have found no case to the contrary. The plaintiff is entitled to judgment on the statement for the sum expended after deducting the amount of money in his hands belonging to the estate to-wit, $27 04. DEADY, J

Brown ... for plaintiff.
Hill for defendant.

THE CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS. Nearly all of the States on the other side of the continent elect Congressmen at the ensuing fall election and the canvass is already becoming a matter of much speculation and activity. The members of the present Congress whose terms expire on the 4th of March next have organized committees and have gone hard to work for their respective parties. A dispatch to the N. Y. Tribune says:

The Democrats are boasting of electing 100 Representatives to the XLIId Congress. It is conceded by shrewd Republicans that they will lose from 10 to 20 Representatives. The present Democratic vote in the House is 73. There are 3 districts in which the Republican majorities range from 120 to 1 000. In 11 districts Democratic majorities are similar. Five of the small Republican margins are in Ohio districts and three of the Democratic in Pennsylvania. The objective points of the campaign seem to be the doubtful districts in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana North Carolina and ... An increase of about 11 opposition votes from the South is conceded. On the other hand the Republicans claim that they will gain in addition 1 member from Arkansas, one at least in Maryland, two in Kentucky, a strong hope of Delaware, a certainty of defeating Wells and McCormick in Missouri and the probability of saving all the Republicans there but the Jackson and Cass District.

The defeat of Dan Voorhees in Indiana is expected, and it is believed that the colored vote in Cincinnati will change Hamilton county for ... The same good result ... expected ... their voting in ... doubtful Pennsylvania ... South while the Republican managers feel more elated than when Congress adjourned. The Democratic accessions from the South will be altogether from Tennessee ... and North Carolina. The two East Tennessee districts will continue Republican ... confidently expected. An attempt is said to be on foot in Virginia for redistricting that State so as to overwhelm those districts ... party is united ... largely Republican. These districts are the 1st 2d 3d and 6th now represented by Myer, Platt, Porter and Bowker. The Legislature is to meet in October and the redistricting ... delayed until the latest moment possible so as certainly to secure ... success.

THE PRESENT WHEREABOUTS OF THE ... UNCLE TOM'S CABIN. A Tribune correspondent has found Lewis Clark the original George Harris of Mrs Stowe's ... at work taking ... prizes for his agricultural products at a farm in Windsor, Canada. After his escape from slavery he was for years one of the anti slavery speakers ... [illegible] ...

... into the treasury of Louisiana.

CURRENT NOTES

Missouri is the chief seat of the so called revenue reform movement. It has a knot of men who are attempting to propagate free trade under that specious guise. But there is a more significant and powerful movement to build up manufactures in that State and free trade cannot ... under such circumstances.

One reason why Irishmen have generally sympathized with the French in this war is that France pretends to be the eldest son of the Church and the sincere defender of the temporal power of the Pope. And yet one of the first acts of this defender of the faith is to withdraw his troops from Rome and leave the Holy Father to his fate.

Napoleon is terribly afflicted with the gout. It would be a sad thing for the French army if he should have a bad attack at the critical moment of a battle which should necessitate his leaving the field. These complaints are not uncommon to warriors. It will be remembered that Gen Price was taken with ... emergency and had to go to the rear when fighting with Sigel.

Some four weeks ago as an omnibus dashed up to one of the Long Branch hotels a lady's hat blew under the wheels and was crushed. Her display of good nature over the accident so struck an English lord that he sought an introduction and they were shortly engaged to be married. It is now stated that not a bus drives up to a Long Branch hotel but that the ground is so covered with hats that the driver can't get down until a small boy shovels them into a hand cart.

The press and public of this country are alike greatly indebted to the New York Tribune for the enterprise quite without a precedent in journalism which it has displayed in gathering in Europe and transmitting by the cable the news of the war. While other papers are getting ready the Tribune is in the field and the contrast between its brilliant performance and the sounding promises of some of its rivals, and the absurd inventions published as cable dispatches by others, cannot fail to make an impression on the public mind which will be worth to the paper all its large expenditure.

A Washington dispatch says: It is ascertained at the Census Office that the census of Chicago and Cincinnati seems to be better taken than that of any other sections and in the Western States generally care is taken to miss no person in the enumeration. While Congress was in session the Western members were rather extravagant in predictions as to census results. For instance a Kansas Senator claimed that his State would show a population of six hundred thousand souls but the probability is that it will be about four hundred thousand as contrasted with the census of 1860 when the population was only about one hundred and nine thousand. It is supposed that while there has been an extraordinary increase in the West, the official figures will fall considerably below the private calculations. The Superintendent says all the returns are received in good shape. One hundred and thirty five clerks are employed in the Census Bureau but this number will be increased from time to time as the business shall demand.

POLITICAL NOTES

It is a fact that all the Democrats in Congress voted against the tax and tariff bills, and put themselves on the record against a reduction of taxation. Republicans will make this fact tell to some effect in the fall campaign.

Something new in regard to Chinese naturalization has turned up greatly to the scandal of the Democracy. Twenty five years ago some Chinese were naturalized in Boston. The Advertiser of that city has been overhauling the records and gives all the particulars. Why didn't the Democracy make this a great political issue at the time? They were extremely culpable for they seem not to have noticed it. But if a Chinaman should be naturalized in these days—whew!—what an uproar we should have.

According to the New York Herald, the friends of Montgomery Blair seem determined to run, and if possible elect him as the next Representative from the Fifth Maryland district. They are of the opinion that if Blair gets a seat in Congress he will be able to teach the old fossil Democrats some wisdom. Mr Blair thinks that the true policy of the Democrats is to shelve the fossil leaders, abandon the old issues which have been settled by the war, accept the situation as it is, and follow leaders who have ever been consistent Union men and been identified with the cause of the Constitution and Union. In other words put no man forward who was a "Copperhead" and accept as leaders none but those men who, like Mr Blair himself fought rebels and Democrats alike during the war.

The San Francisco Examiner, a Democratic organ thinks that Gov Haight should be renominated and declares that he "could poll two votes to any man's one that could be put up against him either by political convention or otherwise." The Workingman's Journal says the anti coolie people had better make a note of that—and keep in memory the welcoming of the Chinese Ambassadors at the Lick House, some three years ago where the Democratic Governor Haight and the Democratic Mayor McCoppin set to banquet with those Chinese introducing them to the American people in words following: As the Chief Magistrate of this State I welcome you to this city. You have accepted a mission in the interest of progress of commerce and of humanity. I bid you on behalf of this Nation on behalf of Europe on behalf of humanity itself a hearty welcome and God speed.

A minister who was generally able to keep his congregation wide awake on one occasion—it was a sultry summer day—observed numbers of them asleep. He resolved to nip the evil practice in the bud. So taking a survey of the scene around and before him he exclaimed: I saw an advertisement last week for five hundred sleepers for a railroad. I think I could supply at least fifty and recommend them as good and sound.

The Railroad Situation and Tribulation of the Democracy

[illegible] read the [illegible] of the Herald on railroad affairs [illegible] the [illegible] has [illegible] that paper [illegible] For the sake of [illegible] it sent itself [illegible] and now it [illegible] Just how to [illegible] it has [illegible] deprive of a railroad It [illegible] It sees that [illegible] the Herald [illegible] with [illegible] endeavor to explain It now says that Holladay has threatened to deprive Southern Oregon of a railroad, and that he must not be allowed to do it that he must be forced to build a road not only to the State line but until he meets the road of the California company let that place be where it may It is only a few days since the Herald was saying that nobody cared whether Holladay built his road a mile further or not He could stop it at Parrott's Creek if he liked The California company would build it The Legislature at the approaching session would give that company the privilege and be glad of the opportunity But now it says We hold that Holladay is bound to build his road through Umpqua and Rogue River valleys What binds him? He will get the land grant as far as he builds the road and if he stops at the head of the Wallamet valley he forfeits nothing but the land grant from there on. And as every person must know he will be forced to stop there if he cannot obtain a southern or eastern connection for his road People do not build railroads unless they can see that those roads will reach and connect somewhere

There is a rumor which we believe was set afloat by Congressman Smith to the effect that the Central Pacific Company are willing to take the grant for the Humboldt branch according to Senator Williams' amendment, and use that grant as far as it will serve their purposes for the branch at Eugene City, The Herald jumps eagerly at this rumor 'All therefore,' says that paper, 'are working for the passage of the bill in its present form Is not this a most humiliating admission to be made by the paper which has so foully abused Williams for introducing this amendment? It has denounced and vilified him beyond measure for making the change and now it tells us that 'all are working for it'' Where could that paper ever have found brass enough to mask its monstrous visage?"

But, let it be understood even this would not give the Southern counties a railroad The Central Pacific company would use the grant for about half the distance, then turn north before reaching the Cascade mountains and run their road on the east side of that range They would thus get all that part of the grant that is really valuable The country situated between the point where they would diverge from the line of the grant and the Wallamet valley contains little good land. Most of it is of volcanic formation, and totally unproductive They would therefore sacrifice nothing but would swindle Southern Oregon out of the benefits of a grant designed mainly for the advantage of that portion of the State Now that the hint has been given, the grant might be amended still further by providing that no company shall have any part of it unless they bring the road into Rogue river valley

The servants of the Central Pacific company including the Herald, Congressman Smith and others, seem to be under the impression that no other company besides the Central Pacific can ever build this road They are so wedded to that corporation that they can conceive of no enterprise which it is not to control But other people will conclude that there are many persons besides the Central Pacific folk who can take hold of this and other important enterprises There are other railroad men in the United States besides them, strange as such a statement may seem to the Herald

The space which that paper is devoting to this subject shows that it is in much tribulation on account of the situation The folly of its party in this section of the State in making this matter a political issue and striking at the interests of the southern counties is at least apparent to that sharp-sighted journal It now sees a thing which other people saw some months ago.

What Prussia may Gain by the War

It seems now certain that France will be humbled in the present war and that Prussia will come out of the struggle as brilliantly victorious as she was in the contest with Austria four years ago In the event of her final success, of which there would seem now to be little doubt Prussia will probably look to the old provinces of Alsace and Lorraine situated on the Rhine and joining the South German States as her recompense for the waste and expense of the war These provinces are essentially German, and it is claimed ought of right to belong to the great Confederation We gather from an authentic source the following information concerning them

These old provinces have been divided into departments under the present government of France, bearing the following names Meuse Moselle, Meurthe Vosges Lower Rhine and Upper Rhine The department of Meuse has 6,103 square kilometers equal to near 4 000 square miles and about 400 000 inhabitants It produces abundant quantities [illegible] olives grain marble and stone and is a great manufacturing center for linen and cotton goods, bonnets oils and sweetmeats [illegible] department of the Moselle contains an area of of 5 327 square kilometers or little more than 3,000 square miles and a population approaching half a million It is also manufacturing center of great importance The capital of the department is the city of Metz It is situated right in the middle of the territory comprising the six above named departments is a very important stronghold and capable of maintaing an immense garrison The city is situated 317 kilometers or 220 miles east-northeast of Paris Its population is 53 000 mostly engaged in manufacturing Metz is one of the oldest cities in Germany and during its history it has passed under many governments, but for more than two hundred years it has paid allegiance to France The department of Meurthe has 6 130 square kilometers of territory and a population of about 450 000 The Capital city is Nancy Vosges is situated to the south and has an area of 5 860 square kilometers of land Its population is in the neighborhood of 400 000, Before the war the departments were all in a highly prosperous condition

The State of Indiana will be out of debt on the 1st of September

Honest Elections

[illegible] has [illegible] to all United States District Attorneys Marshals [illegible] the act [illegible] the recent session of Congress to enforce the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments and has informed them that they will be required to carry its provisions into effect The law is very stringent [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] New York [illegible] day [illegible] is an indication that an attempt will be made to enforce the law in the several States [illegible] which are now [illegible] In most of the States the law will be accepted and carried out in good faith It is only in those States in which the Democratic party is in power that any attempt to evade the law will be made It has been stated that the subject has already been discussed in the [illegible] of the Democracy of New York and that various expedients have been suggested by means of which the old system of wholesale [illegible] may be adhered to and false returns and all the accustomed expedients for securing Democratic success may be continued with impunity and no odious Federal officers have any right to interfere either to prevent the frauds or subsequently to punish them But it seems not to have [illegible] what course is to be taken

Death of Admiral Farragut

The death of David G Farragut the great est naval commander of whom our annals can boast which is announced in the dispatches to day was not unexpected [illegible] his strength had been rapidly declining, and on several occasions it had not been thought possible that he could survive from one day to another

Admiral Farragut was born near Knoxville (Tenn) in 1801 and entered the navy when eleven years of age His first service was with Captain Porter of the Essex in the famous cruise of that vessel during our last war with England He served on various stations till the breaking out of the great rebellion when he was appointed to command the forces for the reduction of New Orleans His career from that time till the close of the war was a series of most brilliant and important achievements, which have forever fixed his name upon the roll of great naval commanders A man of the purest and most unselfish patriotism, of unsurpassed courage, of tremendous energy, combined with the highest naval skill he has served his country with such results as few other men have been able to achieve and he sinks to his rest regretted and mourned by a grateful people

The Income Tax

The Herald says Those whose income tax pinches them closely at this time, must remember that the Radicals reimposed this burden It expired in 1869 It was reenacted in 1870 by Radical votes Business men will make this fact a basis of action at the polls—if they are wise The Herald has always complained that the taxes are so devised as to "oppress the poor " Now here is a tax which, especially in the modified form in which it has been re-enacted falls only on those who are wealthy, or comparatively so It is a tax which the rich pay and from which the 'poor man' is totally exempt Yet the Herald condemns this tax and thus stultifies itself according to its usual custom

It has been stated by the Democratic papers that the cost of collecting the income tax will be nearly equal to the whole tax collected But a statement is published by the Internal Revenue Bureau which shows that the whole cost of assessing and collecting this tax does not exceed $200,000 The whole cost of assessing and collecting the Internal Revenue tax amounting to $180 000,000 per annum, falls short of $7,000,000

A letter from Paris says 'Thiers has disclosed to a select few his plan of campaign—defensive war upon the Rhine—wait the enemy with a firm bearing—maritime offensive war—sink the Prussian vessels bombard the seaboard cities—establish a vigorous blockade on all the Prussian ports All this is very well—on paper,—but will it succeed? The French are not making the 'defensive war on the Rhine' a brilliant thing The Baltic fleet is not heard from Meantime it is growing more doubtful every day whether France will be able to cope with Prussia Not that France lacks resources but she is sadly lacking in organization and leadership Recent events have made this strikingly apparent

The San Francisco Call a Democratic paper, discusses the Oregon Senatorial question and concedes that it "would be better for the material interests of the State to re elect Senator Williams No doubt of that, but then the leaders of the Democratic party of Oregon are not looking to the State's material interests ' The politicians who control the organization here are looking to their own interests and those of their party John F Miller expressed the party idea when he said that he would rather never see a railroad or any other great improvement in the State than that his party should be defeated in the late election

The Chicago Republican undoubtedly hits it when it says that the census takers may as well make up their minds that they will get soundly berated for failing to count up the population of many places to former newspaper estimates It seems occasionally to be taken for granted that it is the [illegible] such officers to verify these [illegible] Every city must expect to be shown by the result of an honest count of its exaggeration of the number of its inhabitants Every United States census [illegible] aspiring and braggart places by showing their real population

OREGON

A contract has been made to build a jail in Umatilla county for $5 [illegible]

About forty men are at work on the new light house at Cape Blanco It is expected that it will be completed before Christmas It will cost between $30 000 and $35 000

J. B Tichenor of Port Orford, says the Roseburg Ensign was shot by the accidental discharge of a gun on the 3d inst The wound though serious is not considered dangerous

RAILROAD MEETINGS — On Saturday last the Directors of the Oregon Central Railroad Company met at [illegible] A M The President read a report of the [illegible] the company and its [illegible] Ben Holladay [illegible] percent [illegible] on all the [illegible] and was [illegible] meeting who [illegible] to be favorable to Mr H Holladay were supposed to be [illegible] was defeated as [illegible] vote

At the stockholders' meeting in the afternoon there was a large [illegible] the new [illegible] J M [illegible] and [illegible] were elected Directors

In the evening the [illegible] attempted to hold another meeting [illegible] against the Company but as the new Directors were opposed to [illegible] they [illegible] their attorney [illegible] and this ousted the old Board

Yesterday the new Board met and organized

Yesterday [illegible] Secretary received a letter from the Secretary of the Interior notifying the Company that the [illegible] had been filed and accepted for the land grant made at last session [illegible] the rapid construction of the road by the William [illegible] Railway Company

We [illegible] that a petition has been started by some [illegible] real estate men asking the Legislature to amend the city charter so as to allow the city to lend [illegible] aid to the construction of the road

MR J H VINSON'S BENEFIT —To night, Mr J H Vinson of the Bates Dramatic Company will take a benefit at Oro Fino Theater The bill selected for the occasion is a most excellent one, and in many respects admirably adapted to the prevailing excited state of public feeling in regard to the war in Europe In compliment to the very large German element in the population of the city Mr Vinson offers an adapted drama entitled The Fatherland or the German Franco War, and announces that a volunteer choir of gentlemen will sing the German National Hymn entitled Fatherland [illegible] these attractions there will be selected pieces by the 23d Infantry and Apollo bands and a grand musical melange by the Pixley Sisters Miss Logie Peter Emmerson and others In justice to Mr Vinson, in connection with the management of the Theater, it will be proper to say that on the occasion of a recent performance during which there were some disgraceful disturbances Mr Vinson was not present nor did he have anything whatever to do with the performance or the Theater for that evening, the house having been engaged by other parties Nothing of the kind will occur to night Under the management of Mr Bates or Mr Vinson the Theater has always been as orderly as any place of amusement could possibly be

BLACKBERRIES —Two or three days since we had occasion to visit a farm house on the east side of the river and while there the company were invited to help themselves to the luscious berries growing upon a couple of hedges of the Lawton Blackberry The two hedges were perhaps six or eight rods in length each the vines trained between slats nailed to posts set in the ground The cost of the hedges, including the trailing frames could never have been more than a few dollars and yet we are satisfied that the crop of this year alone must amount to more than the net value of any five acres of wheat in this county. The briers are yet full of fruit in all stages of growth from the bloom to the "dead ripe" berry to say nothing of the bushels that have already been taken ripe from them If these be fair specimens of blackberry crops in this country a few hedges of them are better than a bank

MORTAL COMBAT AND THE SAD RESULT —A gentleman of truth and veracity relates that a few evenings since he called into a place where they sell bully lager beer and setting down to a table to have the foaming beverage brought to him, the first thing that attracted his attention was a copy of the Evening Bulletin, just fresh and still damp from the press, lying on the table, and mounted upon it the biggest kind of a grasshopper evidently intent upon "chawing" the thing Remembering the sharp attacks of the Bulletin upon the grasshopper tribe, the gentle man was curious to see how this contest between the Grasshopper or the Bulletin should come out, and he avers that after a sharp conflict, in which the Bulletin received some wounds, the Grasshopper keeled over and died We vouch for nothing but the gentleman's veracity

SHIPPING—RAILROAD MATERIAL ARRIVED —Through the kindness of Mr B Killen, who arrived last evening from Astoria, we learn that the Norwegian ship Tordenskjold Capt Christiansen, arrived in the Columbia river last Saturday evening. She has on board 700 tons railroad iron She reports having spoken the ship Loevid, Capt. [illegible] also bound for this port off Cape Horn. The Loevid is a slow sailer though a staunch ship and Capt Christiansen expresses the opinion that no apprehension need be felt for her safety even if she does not arrive for two or three weeks yet The bark Zephyr and brig Kentucky from San Francisco arrived in the river on Sunday, and all three will be up in a day or two One of these latter vessels has a locomotive and several hundred tons of railroad iron

FORMING OF A FRENCH PATRIOTIC CLUB A meeting of our French citizens was held last evening in a hall under the Oro Fino Theater, to form a club the object of which is to raise funds for the relief of the widows and orphans of French soldiers killed in the war between France and Prussia Mr [illegible] was chosen President and Mr A Labbe Vice President. Between thirty and forty members signed the roll and $360 were subscribed in the hall Lists for subscription will be opened at Labbe Bros corner Washington and Second streets Several patriotic speeches were made and the club adjourned

THE NEW RACE COURSES —It is probably not generally known that there are two or three new race courses in the city of Portland but if any body doubts [illegible] let him go down to the north end of town almost any evening and see the blooded stock and scrub stock and all manner of crosses between the two [illegible] over the planked road way of C [illegible] and other streets in that neighborhood Talk about [illegible] gaits of traveling within the city limits When the bloods go it down here [illegible] 30 [illegible] 2 25, and as much quicker as the best of horse flesh can do it. And not a cent to pay to see the races

THE CENSUS —Marshal Young informs us that the census is progressing rapidly throughout the State All the returns received so far, came in in a very satisfactory condition Clackamas Washington and [illegible] have been reported at the Marshal's office and we have the promise of the returns of population as soon as they can be verified Marshal Young has selected good men [illegible] to take the census and [illegible] who [illegible] Oregon [illegible] any of the States [illegible]

RAILROAD [illegible] The two cargoes of iron now in the river will enable the Railroad Company to push [illegible] immediately toward Salem The [illegible] probably be in in a few days and will bring [illegible] the aggregate of iron will be nearly [illegible] complete the track to Salem [illegible] certain that within the next [illegible] weeks the capital and metropolis [illegible] morning

FROM ASTORIA [illegible] who were in attendance [illegible] at Astoria that the term [illegible] through the week was a very busy [illegible] criminal calendar was [illegible] returning [illegible] from Astoria [illegible] have been [illegible] surf and [illegible] like an [illegible]

NAPOLEON'S [illegible] Yesterday the [illegible] of August the French [illegible] was displayed from a number of staffs [illegible] anniversary of the [illegible] of Napoleon Bonaparte The first [illegible] was born August 15, 1769 and [illegible] anniversary of this year was therefore the one hundred and first

WASHINGTON [illegible] It is reported that [illegible] Washington county has in training no less than ten horses for the races at the approaching county fair all of which have won purses in public trials of speed We should judge that there are to be some pure agricultural horse 'trots' at that fair ction and Commission.

TUESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 16 1870

CITY.

LINCOLN MOVEMENTS.—On Saturday last the [illegible] of the Oregon Central Railroad Company met at 10 o'clock A M. The President read report of the condition of the Company and its business, which will be published. Just before the adjournment of the Board Newby offered a resolution to levy an assessment of ten per cent on all the unpaid stock. This would have realized about $456 000 cash down and was proposed in order to prevent certain stockholders from voting at the stockholders meeting who were supposed to be favorable to Mr Holladay [illegible] Newby strategy was defeated as the resolution was lost on a tie vote.

The stockholders meeting, in the afternoon, was a large attendance and the meeting passed off with good feeling. [illegible] the new [illegible] Samuel E [illegible] J M [illegible], R. H. Fowler and Levi Estes were elected Directors.

In the evening the old Board attempted to hold another meeting to approve a list of claims against the Company, but as the new Directors were opposed to increasing the indebtedness of the Company, they qualified, and sent in their attorney with their oaths of office and this ousted the old Board.

Yesterday the new Board met and organized. Yesterday also, the Secretary received a letter from the Secretary of the Interior notifying the Company that their assent had been filed and accepted for the land grant made at last session of Congress. Negotiations are pending to secure a rapid confirmation of the road by the Willamette Valley Railway Company.

We also learn that a petition has been started by some heavy real estate men asking the Legislature to amend the city charter so as to allow the city to legally aid in the construction of the road.

MR J H. VINSON'S BENEFIT.—To night Mr J H Vinson of the Bates Dramatic Company will take a benefit at Oro Fino Theater. The play selected for the occasion is a most excellent one and in many respects admirably adapted to the prevailing excited state of public feeling in regard to the war in Europe. In compliment to the very large German element in the population of the city, Mr Vinson offers an adapted drama entitled "The Fatherland or the German Franco War," and announces that a volunteer choir of gentlemen will sing the German National Hymn "Fatherland." Beside these attractions there will be selected pieces by the 23d Infantry band, and a grand musical melange by the Pixley Sisters, Miss Ingles, Peter Emory and others. In justice to Mr Vinson, in connection with the management of the Theater it will be proper to say that on the occasion of a recent performance, during which there were some slight disturbances, Mr Vinson was not present, nor did he have anything whatever to do with the performance or the Theater for that evening, the house having been engaged by other parties. Nothing of the kind will occur to night under the management of Mr Bates or Mr Vinson. This Theater has always been as orderly as any place of amusement could possibly be.

BLACKBERRIES.—Two or three days since we had occasion to visit a farm house on the east side of the river and while there the company were invited to help themselves to the luscious fruit growing upon a couple of hedges of the Lawton Blackberry. The two hedges were perhaps eight rods in length, each, the vines trained on slats nailed to posts set in the ground. The cost of the hedges including the frames could never have been more than ten dollars, and yet we are satisfied that the profits this year alone must amount to more than the value of any five acres of wheat in this county. The briers are yet full of fruit in all stages of growth from the bloom to the "dead ripe" berries, to say nothing of the bushels that have already been taken ripe from them. If these are fair specimens of blackberry crops in this country, a few hedges of them are better than a farm.

MORTAL COMBAT AND THE SAD RESULT.—A gentleman of truth and veracity relates that a few evenings since he called into a place where they sell lager beer and setting down to a table to have the foaming beverage brought to him, the first thing that attracted his attention was a copy of the Evening Bulletin, just fresh and still damp from the press lying on the table and upon it the biggest kind of a grasshopper, evidently intent upon "chawing" the thing. [illegible] bearing the sharp attacks of the Bulletin upon the grasshopper tribe the gentleman was curious to see how this contest between the grasshopper vs. the Bulletin should come out. It appears that after a sharp conflict, in which the Bulletin received some wounds the Grasshopper [illegible] over and died. We vouch for nothing [illegible] gentleman's veracity.

SHIPPING—RAILROAD MATERIAL ARRIVED.—Through the kindness of Mr B Killen, who arrived last evening from Astoria, we learn that the [illegible] ship Tordenskjold, Capt Christiansen arrived in the Columbia river last Saturday evening. She has on board 700 tons railroad iron [illegible] having spoken the ship Loverd, Capt [illegible], also bound for this port, off Cape Horn. The Loverd is a slow sailer though a staunch [illegible] Capt. Christiansen expresses the opinion that no apprehension need be felt for her safety even if she does not arrive for two or three months yet. The bark Zephyr and brig Kentucky [illegible] also arrived in the river on Sunday and all three will be up in a day or two. One of these latter vessels has a locomotive and several hundred tons of railroad iron.

MEETING OF A FRENCH PATRIOTIC CLUB.—A meeting of our French citizens was held last evening in a hall under the Oro Fino Theater to form a club, the object of which is to raise funds for the relief of the widows and orphans of French soldiers killed in the war between France and Prussia. Mr Riviere was chosen President and [illegible] Labbe Vice President. Between thirty and forty members signed the roll and $350 were subscribed in the hall. Lists for subscription will be opened at Labbe Bros corner Washington and Second streets. Several patriotic speeches were made, and the club adjourned.

THE NEW RACE COURSES.—It is probably not generally known that there are two or three new race courses in the city of Portland but if any body doubts it, let him go down to the north end of town almost any evening and see the bloods [illegible] and scrub stock and all manner of crosses between the two, going it over the planked road [illegible] G, H, and other streets in that neighborhood. Talk about six mile gaits of traveling within the city limits! Why the bloods go it [illegible] at the rate of 3 30 3 00 2 58 and [illegible] quicker as the best of horse flesh can do it, and not a cent to pay to see the races.

THE CENSUS.—Marshal Young informs us that the census is progressing rapidly throughout the State. All the reports received so far, came in [illegible] a very satisfactory condition. Clackamas [illegible] and other counties have been returned at the Marshal's office and we have the promise of the returns for publication as soon as they can be verified. Marshal Young has selected [illegible] and efficient persons to take the census and [illegible] devoting his time almost wholly to the work, so as to secure accuracy and despatch. [illegible] will be in as quickly as any of the States [illegible] good shape.

RAILROAD TO SALEM.—The two cargoes of iron now in the river will enable the Railroad Company to push their road on immediately toward Salem. The Loverd will probably be in in a few days, and with her cargo the aggregate of iron will be nearly or quite enough to complete the road to Salem. It now seems certain that within the next month or six weeks the capital and metropolis may shake hands with each other any [illegible] morning.

FROM ASTORIA.—We learn from attorneys who were in attendance upon the court at Astoria that the session, lasting entirely through the week was a very busy one and that an unusually long criminal calendar was disposed of. Returning visitors from Astoria and the beach report that they have been having a high old time paddling in the surf and sporting with the crabs, clams and such like.

NAPOLEON'S BIRTHDAY.—Yesterday the 15th of August, the French flag was displayed from a number of staffs in this city in honor of the anniversary of the birthday of Napoleon Bonaparte the first Emperor of the French was born August 15th 1769, and the anniversary of this year was therefore, the one hundred and first.

WASHINGTON COUNTY FAIR.—It is reported that [illegible] in Washington county has in training [illegible] horses for the races at the approaching county fair, all of which have won [illegible] in public trials of speed. We should judge [illegible] to be some "pure agricultural horse" [illegible] at the fair.

Signor Guttari an Italian has invented and exhibited in London a device for communicating telegraphic signals by means of a tube of air extending between two points. The Morse alphabet can be used upon it and it is operated by an ordinary telegraph key. It may be laid and operated as cheaply as the electric apparatus and has the advantage of not being troubled by atmospheric changes. It will be chiefly valuable however for communication for short distances as in buildings or cities.

THE COMMANDER OF THE FRENCH RESERVES—GENERAL NICOLAS ANNE THEODULE CHANGARNIER.—The New York Herald gives the following history of this noted soldier

The appointment of General Changarnier as Commander of the French Reserves is strongly significant of the desire on the part of the Emperor to unite all parties in the war against Germany. This veteran officer is now in the seventy seventh year of his age. He distinguished himself in Algiers gaining promotion after promotion for gallantry on the battle field. In 1848 he became Governor General of Algiers under the provisional government of the republic and soon after was elected a member of the Constituent Assembly for the Department of the Loire. Leaving Algiers he went to Paris where he participated conspicuously in the important events that transpired there. He took active part in suppressing the insurrection of June 1848 which resulted in General Cavaignac assuming the dictatorship. After the elevation of Louis Napoleon the Presidency Changarnier was placed in command of the entire military force in Paris. By the excellence of his arrangements and the vigor of his movements he crushed the attempted insurrection of June 1849 with but small sacrifice of life. In 1850 he was removed from his command his views as [illegible] Napoleon [illegible] were [illegible] Changarnier [illegible] tried [illegible] sign [illegible] But whatever the reason it is certain that the opponents of Napoleon [illegible] as their leader [illegible] for the Presidency. The coup d'etat of December 1851 prevented his candidacy from amounting to anything. Soon after he was arrested and imprisoned but was soon released. He then retired to Belgium where he remained in exile until recently when he returned to France. Notwithstanding his opposition to the Emperor he has always been highly esteemed by Napoleon who in 1859 [illegible] him to the rank of Grand Officer of the Legion of Honor. His reconciliation with the Emperor and present position as a supporter of France in the war with Prussia [illegible] whose importance cannot be overestimated.

THE TERRITORIES

There is a larger yield of wheat in Walla Walla valley than in any previous year.

Idaho City is said to have dwindled away till it is but a shadow of its former self.

The quota of school lands belonging to Walla Walla county W T is 3 000 acres.

Dela [illegible] one of the Northern Pacific Railway organizers reports that the route from Montana down to Salmon river to Lewiston is [illegible] practicable.

The Montana papers say that as a apparent [illegible] C [illegible] began campaign that Territory has never since its first settlement enjoyed so long immunity from Indian outrages.

A Montana editor gets off this: A party of ladies and gentlemen of Helena having gone down in a chartered stage to visit the Great Falls of the Missouri. We hope they will have a more pleasant time than we did in the same trip two years ago this summer when stage started and a ne [illegible] war party of 150 Blackfeet. We [illegible] them all to fight—trying to overtake us.

Down with the Fifteenth Amendment! The Democracy are [illegible] undying hatred of the negro. We now learn that the Comanche Indians are expressing their hatred of the negro and are giving the United States an everlasting battle because they don't like the negro troops employed on the Texan frontier. It is too much trouble to scalp them. In fact to get what approaches a scalp on a white person's head they have to skin them.

Mrs. Gates and Mrs James.—Mrs Gates—Good morning Mrs James. How well you are looking, far better than when I saw you last.

Mrs James.—Oh yes, I am much better than I have been for a long time and I am now on my way for more of my favorite medicine—PLANTATION BITTERS. One bottle of it is worth all the doctors in the world. No more doctors for me.

Mrs Gates.—Nearly every one speaks well of PLANTATION BITTERS and I have a mind to try it myself. The fact is I have no appetite strength or energy for any thing. Mary and Lizzie are in the same way and lounge about the house all day long good for nothing.

Mrs James.—My word for it Mrs Gates just let them try PLANTATION BITTERS moderately three times a day and you will see a wonderful improvement.

The Blood in Summer

The blood deteriorates in hot weather. Profuse perspiration deprives it of a portion of its nourishing and reproductive properties. Consequently in summer the flesh loses in some degree its firmness the muscles lack their usual elasticity and vigor and the weight of the body diminishes. These are clear indications that the life-sustaining principle afforded by the food we eat is not sufficient to meet the requirements of the system under a high temperature. There is another reason for this besides the direct influence of the heat viz the loss of appetite and the weakening of the digestive powers which it occasions. Under these circumstances a wholesome invigorant is evidently needed and the best and safest is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This admirable vegetable tonic and alterative, acts favorably upon the system in several ways. It increases the appetite and facilitates digestion thereby inducing the stomach to receive and enabling it to assimilate a due amount of nourishment. It also tones the relaxed [illegible] of the bowels. Under its operation the process of emaciation occasioned by the drain through the pores is arrested, the whole frame is refreshed and the spirits exhilarated. The dyspeptic [illegible] that [illegible] the stimulant and corrective they ought to take at this season. The thousands [illegible] the fact by experience. Nothing in the pharmacopœia [illegible] supply [illegible] dealers would [illegible] glad [illegible] to [illegible] instead.

The Competing Weapons

The Needle-Gun vs the Chassepot Rifle

[illegible] several grounds entitled [illegible] first be [illegible] for upwards of twenty years [illegible] important part in [illegible] war with Austria, and finally because unlike European breech-loaders [illegible] it possesses a peculiar mechanical arrangement [illegible] to suit some particular cartridge previously [illegible] us for other arms.

It is generally [illegible] that the success of this weapon in the war with Austria was [illegible] to the fact of its being a breech-loader rather than to any virtue dependent on the feature of its construction from which it derives its name and perhaps any other breech-loader would have had an equal advantage over the muzzle loading arm with which the opposing army was furnished [illegible] was not a novelty to the Prussian soldier. 40,000 of these guns on an improved plan having cast steel barrels were served out as early as 1841 a hundred men of every battalion of the line being equipped with them, and the use of the gun by the Prussian infantry became general about 1848.

The factories of Spandau, Sommerda, Erfurt and Dantzig can produce [illegible] 100,000 guns annually and the number possessed by Prussia before the war amounted to 100,000. The royal decree justifying the adoption of the needle-gun came from a king who had served a good apprenticeship to the military art, and contained the following passage which, read in the light afforded by the great war with Austria, seems to have a prophetic import:

"The rifled needle gun is according to our present conviction the perfection of military arms and its practical introduction will no doubt lead to its adoption in all branches of the service. The result of numerous experiments made us appreciate this invention as a special dispensation of Providence for the strengthening of our national resources and we cherish the hope that the system may be kept secret until the great part which it is destined to play in history may couple it with the glory of Prussian arms and the extension of empire."

The fundamental principal of the needle gun as already stated lies in this that a cartridge is employed which contains within itself the fulminating compound that is to ignite the powder and since this fulminate lies buried between the powder and the ball it can only be reached and struck and hence ignited, by a needle piercing the cartridge. The principal features of the mechanism are as follows: First (beginning with the feature most notorious) the needle fixed in a holder or bolt, encircled by a spiral spring the recoil of which is to dart the needle into the explosive charge; second the lock or appliance for drawing the needle back to put it in connection with the trigger; third, the chamber which forms the breech piece and which carries a little tube or guide, through which the needle passes to the cartridge. The whole of this mechanism is carried in a cylindrical case which is fixed to the stock by bands, and into which the barrel is screwed so that the case forms, as it were a prolongation of the barrel; lastly there is the trigger which when pulled, discharges the needle from its detaining catch.

It is difficult to convey an exact idea of the mode of operation of the various parts but the piece itself, while somewhat complicated in construction is simple in its working. To load the piece, the catch which holds the needle, near the "small of the stock" on top, is drawn directly to the rear. This draws back the needle, or cocks the piece when the knob which holds the breech block is forced sidewise, and then drawn to the rear, working in a slot, precisely similar to a street-door bolt. The breech is now open, the cartridge inserted, and the breech is closed by a reverse motion of the knob, which jams the concave face of the breech-block firmly upon the conical end of the barrel. The piece is then fired at the touch of the trigger which releases the spring, darts the needle through the powder to the cap, and ignites the charge. By a strong pull upon the trigger the catch which holds the needle-case is withdrawn and the needle, ring, and case (or, in other words, the lock,) can be taken out, and the piece thus disabled. The barrel of the gun is, in the latest pattern, thirty-two inches long and six tenths of an inch bore the breech end being widened out to admit the cartridge easily, and it is rifled with four grooves three-hundredths of an inch deep, the rifling taking one turn in twenty-eight and one half inches. The total weight of the gun without the sword bayonet is ten and three-quarter pounds.

The advantages claimed for the needle-gun are chiefly these: That the bullet is propelled through rifled grooves without violent forcing into the barrel—indeed without coming into contact with it; that the loading is simple and rapid, the ball, powder, and cap being contained in the cartridge; that the loading is from the breech; that the combustion of the powder and cartridge-case is more complete than in any other guns; that the escaping gas carries but little smoke with it; that the gun is disabled instantly, if necessary. Some of these advantages are, of course, common to most breech-loaders, but there is one especial merit in the needle gun that is not so common to other constructions and that is the ease with which the mechanism can be made and put together. Concerning the durability of the gun, it is said that many of the battalions of Prussian fusiliers are using now the very guns served out in 1848.

The chief objections to the needle-gun are the danger attending the transportation of its paper cartridge, and the delicacy and complication of its mechanical arrangements. The cartridge, unlike the metallic, does not assist in any way to prevent the escape of gas breech-wards so the junction of the chamber closer of breech-bolt with the barrel must be a perfect mechanical fit, like the safety-valve of a steam-boiler. If a little sand were to get into the joint, an injurious escape of gas would be inevitable, or if the spiral spring that projects the needle were to come in contact with salt water the weapon would speedily become ineffective.

THE NEEDLE GUN CARTRIDGE.

The cartridge of the Prussian needle-gun is peculiarly its own made for this gun; it can only be used in it, or in a gun having a needle arrangement to reach the fulminate through the powder. It consists mainly of four parts, not incased in a metallic, but a paper cover. These parts are the powder, the fulminating cap, the carrier wad and the bullet. The latter is of acorn shape, and weighs about an ounce and the charge of powder is seventy six grains. The distinguishing features of this cartridge are the carrier-wad and the cap. The cap is in the center of the cartridge, in front of the powder and to explode the charge the needle stabs through the powder, which is thus ignited from the front. The carrier wad is formed of strips of paper, molded into the proper shape by heavy pressure, and its uses are as follows: It holds the cap containing the fulminating compound [illegible] protecting it from [illegible] injury; it receives the first impulse of the explosion and transmits it to the bullet, thereby economizing the force of the powder; it is compressed into the grooves of the rifling and thus imparts a rotary motion to the bullet, which does not itself touch the barrel, and hence the grooves never get leaded with lead; finally it cleanses the barrel at every discharge of the gun. The wad accompanies the bullet through some fifty or sixty yards of its flight, and about [illegible] yards from the gun it strikes the target about three or four inches below the bullet mark, and at this distance will pierce a pine board of over half an inch in thickness so that, at short range the gun may be said to carry two projectiles. This however may not always be an advantage, as in the case of firing over a line of troops a short distance in front, the wad might kill or wound a friend instead of a foe. The fulminate of the needle-gun cartridge was at one time believed to be [illegible] but it is now generally known [illegible] of a mixture of chlorate of potash, antimony and sulphur in the proportions of five to three to two of the respective chemicals. As already stated, the cartridge is enveloped in a paper case; this case is almost if not entirely consumed by the combustion of the powder, and, to insure its complete consumption, a certain amount of air is provided for by the air chamber or cavity surrounding the fore-part of the needle-guide, hence there is no empty cartridge to take out of the gun [illegible] The [illegible] the front is however the [illegible] feature in the [illegible] simplest [illegible] possesses all the great advantages over the central fire or rim fulminate [illegible] the dreaded dangers attending the delicate and complicated mechanism of the needle-gun can be better apprehended after the several guns have been more thoroughly compared and contrasted.

THE CHASSEPOT RIFLE.

This rifle, the weapon of the French army, is a needle gun differing from the Prussian [illegible] in the shape of [illegible] is not [illegible] the fulminate [illegible] of the charge [illegible] an ordinary copper cap. [illegible] chief feature of the invention however consists in the contrivance adopted for preventing the escape of gas breechward. The [illegible] of the breech parts is [illegible] obtained by the instantaneous compression during the action of the explosion of vulcanized india rubber washer [illegible] the front face of the breech bolt [illegible] shoulder upon the needle guide. The needle guide being movable and the front face of the bolt being fixed the india rubber washer is nipped between them. The washer and the [illegible] shoulder are of [illegible] less diameter than the chamber in which they are fitted so as to facilitate their play therein, but the diameter of the front face of the [illegible] is as nearly as possible equal to the inner diameter of the barrel. When the explosion takes place, the pressure transmitted by the movable needle-guide to the washer is such that the latter is compressed such as to hermetically close the rear end of the barrel and thereby prevent all gas escape. After the charge is fired and the pressure removed, the washer by virtue of its [illegible] returns to its original position. [illegible] composed of three layers of [illegible] of much harder substance than the center one so that on being pressed the intermediate layer which is perfectly elastic expands. The following particulars relate to the Chassepot rifle:

	English measurement
Weight	8 lb 14 oz 13 dr
Calibre	433 [illegible]
Range	1 094 yards
Weight of cartridge	5 8 4 grains
Weight of ball	3 0 4 grains
Weight of charge	54 5 grains
Number of grooves	4

No reliable data has yet been obtained for comparing the merits of the Chassepot with other breech-loaders. The French trials are generally conducted in secret, save what is considered necessary to give eclat to an invention adopted by the government.

Consequently little is known of the effective workings of the piece in the French army though it is believed that the troops have been brought to a high state of perfection in the use of this arm both as regards celerity and accuracy of fire. Despite the perishable nature of the elastic washer (which however can be easily renewed) as a breech closing arrangement it is probable that the French weapon is better calculated to stand the rough usage of a campaign than the Prussian needle-gun [illegible] the latter [illegible] soldier [illegible] We [illegible] can be [illegible] sand [illegible] of the [illegible] superiority [illegible] in its [illegible] from the [illegible] ly made [illegible] Specht [illegible] Chassepot [illegible] the Prussian [illegible] made [illegible] journal [illegible] The Chassepot [illegible] Prussian [illegible] have been [illegible] fifty of [illegible] Chassepot [illegible] needle [illegible] men in [illegible] to fire [illegible] needle [illegible] and [illegible] spot [illegible] enth [illegible] target [illegible] ward [illegible] the [illegible] Chassepot [illegible] have [illegible] guns [illegible]

THE CHASSEPOT CARTRIDGE.

The Chassepot cartridge is not, correctly speaking, a metallic cartridge. It consists of six parts namely the priming, the powder case, the powder, the pasteboard wad, the ball case, and the ball. The priming consists of a copper cap, like the ordinary military percussion cap but of smaller dimensions. It is formed at the bottom with two [illegible] diametrically opposite each other [illegible] give free passage to the charge of powder for the spark or flash the fulminating powder being placed at the bottom of the cap a small plug of cloth or wax [illegible] protect it from external concussion. The cap is then covered with a thin wafer of [illegible] copper or attached [illegible] the cartridge, and the priming is thus complete. The powder-case is formed from a rectangular piece of paper, rolled up on a mandril and pasted at the edges. When this case is dry the priming is inserted with a mandril and the end of the case is then closed and pasted. The case being thus prepared the charge of powder is inserted and it is pushed down gently to give rigidity to the cartridge. A pasteboard wad is next placed in the powder form[illegible] with a hole in the middle through the forward end of the case [illegible] of the case is inserted, the excess of paper being cut off. The ball case is composed of a paper packet. The [illegible] is of [illegible] at the [illegible] thus [illegible] a string [illegible] each [illegible] Finally the cartridge is greased.
